

Ragolla Kunta Tank in Malla Reddy Gudem village

The Ragolla Kunta tank is situated in Malla Reddy Gudem village of Chotuppall mandal of Nalgonda district in Andhra Pradesh. The work components planned in this tank were bund strengthening, construction of surplus weir and revetment of the bund. The works completed are bund strengthening and bund revetment. The construction of surplus weir was source of conflict in the village with one group of people wanting it and another group against it. In spite of several discussions the work could not started. So the field team decided to wrap up the work in this village with the bund strengthening and revetment of bund. The work of construction of surplus weir will be taken up in the future when there is a felt need for it by all the villagers. The people also felt that this is better way to resolve the issue and have decided to return the money received for the surplus weir work. The final budget is reduced to Rs.1,84,609 from the Rs.2,26,000 planned and accordingly the people contribution.
