

Kumarappa's Economy of Permanence in Art Form

[Extracts from the Book 'Economy of Permanence by J. C. Kumarappa]

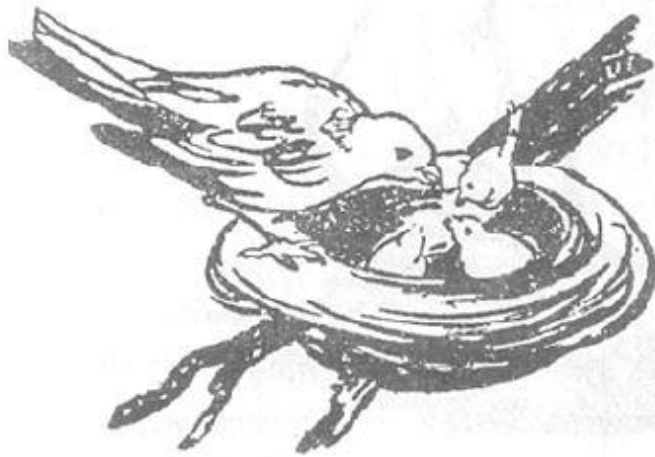

A bird living on other creatues

Birds feeding on ears of corn which they have done nothing to cultivate

A bird using a nest built by its own effort

The mother bird feeding its young ones, without expecting a reward

A honey bee collecting food, not for itself, but for the whole colony

A robber killing a child for its necklace

A pickpocket at work

Financiers living in luxury without producing wealth

Giving water to a thirsty way-farer without expecting a reward

A mother nursing the child

"Best foreign missionary style"

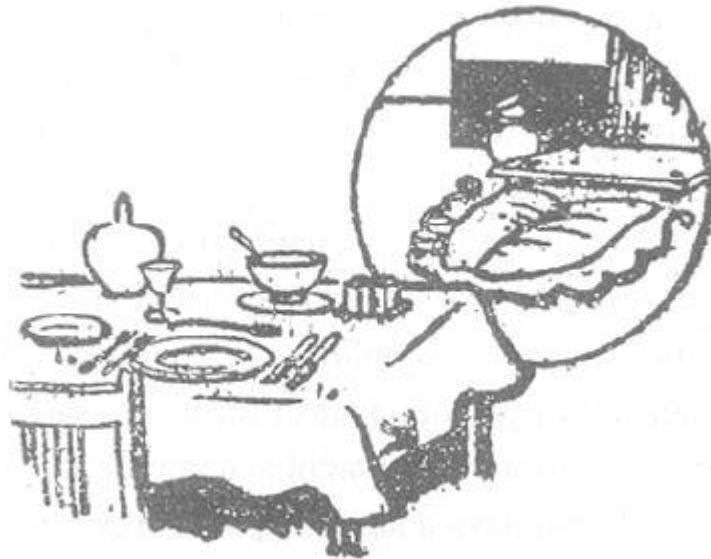

Producer made fashions

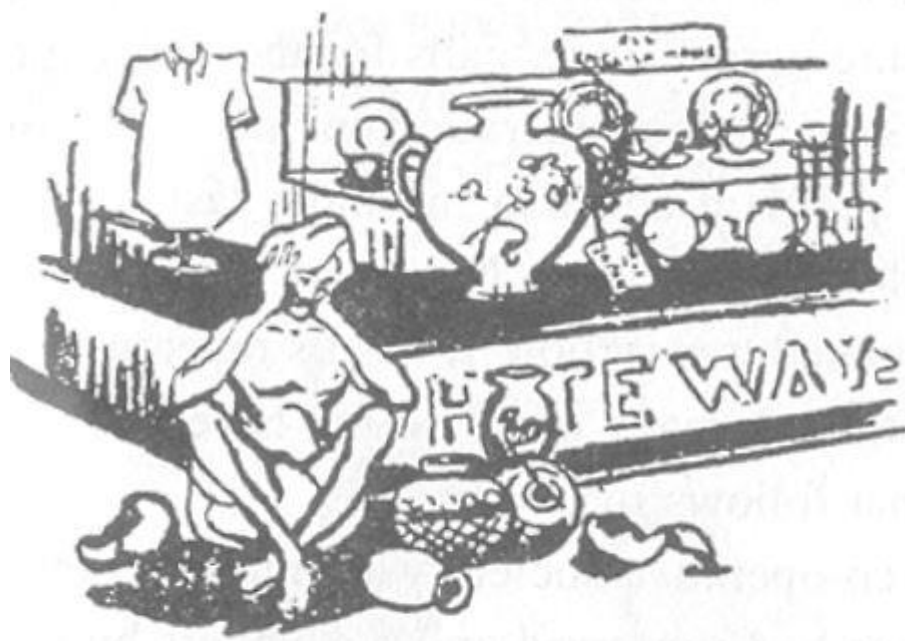

The Nude cult and ill-clad poverty

Imperfect adaptation

The two ways of dining

The use of foreign articles deprives our people of employment

Milk produced by villagers is taken to be sold in towns leaving the village children without this nutritive article of diet

